Commercial Lunch.

There will be served during the Summer a regular commercial lunch at Anderson's lunch counter in Weiland's saloon. It will be a hot lunch with soup, beer, tea, coffee or milk, for 25 cents. It is proposed to make this the best lunch in the city for the money, and will run from 12 to 2 o'clock.

A. Livingston now practically controls the wholesale liquor trade of the city. He is continually adding to his stock and sells only standard brands. He is also introducing some excellent California wines to the people of Carson, as well as foreign and domestic cigars of the finest quality. Drop in and inspect his stock.

The Capital Lodging House has been reshingled, repainted and renovated, making it especially desirable for lodgers. The bar is stocked with nothing but first-class goods. Opposite South front of Capitol building. Mrs. Jennie Forrest, proprietress.

If your watch is out of order in any way you can get it repaired at Golden's by skilled workmen from the best institutions in Europe. The work turned out in jewelry repairing is always finished in the best style and the assortment of goods has no equal anywhere in Nevada.

THE FIRST GUN.

STEWART OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN.

A Packed House and People Turned from the Doors.

A DIGNIFIED BUT SCATHING ANSWER TO WOODBURN.

Who Says Ormsby County Isn't for Silver?

Last evening the city was a blaze of bonfires, the air was filled with stirring music and the Opera House was packed to hear Senator Stewart open the silver campaign in Ormsby.

Two carloads came up from Reno, and at least 500 people were left there who would have come up. It was a great disappointment. Ten cars could have been filled.

The Reno silverites brought up a fine band and a quartette that furnished splendid music.

Some of the Dayton, Empire and Candelaria silverites were on deck.

Surveyor General Jones presided over the meeting. Frank Folsom acted as Secretary, and the following were Vice-Presidents:

Messrs. Logan, Petersen, Folsom, Robert, Chedie, Guinan, McGowan, Oleovich, James, Noteware, Kinney, Cohn, Reynolds, Blethen, Gardner, Wagner, J. Rayercraft, Dr. Fox, J. Heidenreich, Herrick, S. H. Day, Walter, Leete, Gates, Meyer, Cice, Cross, Jake Longabangh, Moore, Ryland, Osburn, Pike and Norcross.

The Chairman then introduced Senator Stewart amid applause and cheers, and he spoke for nearly two hours. Among other things he said:

Mr. Woodburn declared in Virginia last Saturday night that "the act of 1873, demonetizing silver, for infamy, has no parallel in history. It was a legislative crime incapable of justification, palliation, or excuse. I charge, gentlemen, without fear of contradiction, that the candidate for the Senate on the silver ticket, was one of the chief conspirators that destroyed half of the money of the people in the interest of the rings and bondholders that he now vigorously denounces."

In this statement he was mistaken. In endeavoring to convict me he proved too much. He was compelled to show that silver was demonetized with the knowledge and consent of the two houses of Congress, both of which at the time were overwhelmingly Republican. If his argument is sound, then the Republican party was knowingly guilty of the crime of demonetizing silver, and Senators Thurman, Conkling, Allison, Blaine, Voorhees, Beck, Hereford, Howe and Boggy, and Representatives Holman, Cannon, Kelly, Burchard and Garfield stultified themselves. They were all present when the infamous fraud was committed, and each has declared in his place that he knew nothing of the transaction. Senator Thurman, in a debate in the Senate in February, 1878, gave his testimony as to what he knew of the demonetization of silver in the Mint act as follows:

"I cannot say what took place in the House, but I know when the bill was pending in the Senate we thought it was simply a bill to reform the Mint, regulate coinage, and fix up one thing and another. There is not a single man in the Senate, I think, unless a member of the committee from which the bill came, who had the slightest idea that it was even a squint towards demonetization."

The testimony of the other Senators and Representatives above named was equally emphatic. The only Senator or Representative who participated in the legislation and who has given us the benefit of his testimony, to the effect that the infamous fraud was understood by the Senate, is John Sherman of Ohio. All others who have spoken have indignantly denied all knowledge of the demonetization of silver in the Mint Act of 1873.

It was charged by my enemies six years ago that I was present and voted for the demonetization of silver. I promised my constituents to show in the Senate of the United States that the demonetization of silver was secret and fraudulent and that none but the manipulators knew that silver was demonetized by the omission of the silver dollar from the list of coins by the act of 1873. It was boldly asserted that I would not dare to make such a statement in the Senate in the presence of John Sherman. I have repeatedly made that assertion in the Senate in debate with John Sherman himself, and proved the truth of my assertion.

The printed documents relating to the subject, accessible to the public, having been exhausted, I resorted to the original files in the vaults of the Capitol at Washington and caused to be printed in a speech I made on the 5th of June, 1890, fac similes of all the proceedings had in the Senate of the United States with regard to the Mint bill of 1873. I now hold that document in my hand. From it, it appears that on the 9th day of May, 1872 the bill came from the House and was referred to the Committee on Finance. On the 16 day of December, 1872, it was reported by the committee with amendments. On January 17, 1873, additional amendments were reported which were ordered to be printed on the 17th day of January, 1873, the bill was considered at length, extensively debated in a full Senate, and passed.

The amendments of the committee were first in order. They were considered seriatim and acted upon with the exception of the amendment which demonetized silver. That amendment, as appears from the Globe, was neither read nor voted upon in the Senate. Section 15 was stricken out.

No action was taken with regard to section 16. The next amendment reported at the clerk's desk was to section 17 and related to subsidiary coin. Section 18 was then amended. The amendment to section 19 provided that upon the silver dollar and minor silver coins the figure of the eagle should be omitted and the weight and fineness substituted therefor.

Mr. Casserly of Cal., objected to the omission of the eagle and inquired of Senator Sherman why that was done. Senator Sherman replied, that the silver dollar contained in the bill was designed to float all over the world, and that foreigners might not understand what the eagle meant, that they might mistake it for a buzzard or some other bird, but the weight and fineness would inform them of the exact value of the coin. This explanation satisfied the Senate with the change.

After further unimportant bills passed. No one supposed that Senator Sherman would offer an amendment providing for the superscription on the silver dollar if no dollar was provided for in the bill, nor did any one suppose that he stated false to the Senate in saying such a dollar was provided for in the proceeding section of the bill. On examination of the original bill a substitute for section 16 was marked as "agreed to" by the Senate. Whether the omission to read this fatal amendment was accidental or by design, there is no means of proving; but the Globe, a copy of which I hold in my hand, shows that it was never brought to the attention of the Senate. There never was one word of debate at any time in the Senate either on the act of 1873 or any other bill in which the demonetization of silver was alluded to or squinted at.

President Grant signed the bill. If he did so knowingly he was a party to the infamy so vigorously denounced by Mr. Woodburn, but President Grant was not guilty of the crime. He was ignorant of the fraud as is conclusively proved by the fact that nearly two years afterwards in January 1875 when he signed the specie resumption act he sent a special message to Congress recommending the erection of monuments to coin silver to provide for the resumption of specie payment which was to take place on the 1st of January 1879. It would seem hardly possible, if Mr. Woodburn believes that President Grant and the Republican party were guilty of knowingly committing the crime of demonetizing silver that he would adhere to that party, and trust Senator Sherman to control the financial policy of the Administration.

The Reno Glee Club followed in some songs which fairly brought down the house.

Mr. Beck of Reno was called on and made a short interesting talk.

The editor of the APPEAL spoke briefly on Stewart's work for Ormsby and the meeting closed with singing by the Glee Club and cheers for silver and Stewart.

WANTED TO DIE.

James Daley Kills Himself with a Pistol.

Yesterday about noon James Daley shot himself in Dempsey's saloon.

He asked for a drink, and being somewhat intoxicated was refused. He drew a derringer, and placing it against his right breast, said: "Everybody in town is a son of a b—," and fired. He was taken to the Sheriff's office, where he died in half an hour.

He purchased the weapon not long before of Fox, and asked to have it loaded.

He endeavored to pick several quarrels on the morning of his death and also the night before, in the hope, it is said, of being shot, but was too intoxicated to command attention.

He had been following the races some time, and lost everything. He had been a jockey, starter and a trainer; was 23 years old and a native of Oakland. He left a letter to his mother, stating that he was about to end his life.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of suicide.
